CITY WATER MAINS ARE TO BE EXTENDED AND NEW AUTO FIRE TRUCK MAY BE PURCHASED SOON

WATER IS TO BE CARRIED TO NORTH AND SOUTH LIMITS OF CITY ON RIDGEWOOD AVENUE

PERMISSION GRANTED CAPT.
NUTTING TO REBUILD DOCK BUILDING AND INTEMANN TO ERECT A NEW DOCK.

That the city water mains are to be extended along Ridgewood avenue to the north and south city limits, is now assured because of action taken by the city council at its regular meeting last night. The mains will be six-inch pipe and the work will be started as soon as possible.

The annual report of the superintendent of the city waterworks plant, which has been made to the board of public works, showing the plant to be in good condition, was presented to the council by the board of public works, and the report was accompanied by a request for permission to extend the mains on Ridgewood avenue from Fairview north to the city limits, and from the south end of the present main to the city limits on Ridgewood avenue.

Joseph Osborne, a member of the board of public works, appeared before the council to explain why this request was made, saying that the waterworks plant is now in splendid condition and with a capacity to supply water to a much larger territory than is now being supplied.

All members of the city council were favorable to the extension, but at the present time the city finances will not permit the necessary expenditure. However, an effort will be made to start the work of laying the mains in the very near future.

Other Business Done—
Accompanied by proofs of publication, showing that the matter had been legally advertised, the request of Capt. Ralph Nutting for permission to improve the shelter building at the end of the Rambler dock was granted, and H. A. Intemann was given permission to build a dock and shelter house in front of his property on North Beach street.

George Meade appeared before the council to request that some action be taken to clean up several vacant lots on South Ridgewood avenue because the present condition of the lots make them unsanitary and unsafe from fire. Street Commissioner Rix also stated to the council that the lots should be cleaned up. The particular lot, to the condition of which Mr. Meade and Mr. Rix objected, is lot 6 in block 67, and lots 1, 2 and 3 in the same block are nearly as bad. The matter was referred to the sanitary committee.

W. H. Parker, the new night-watchman, stated to the council that he has names enough on his petition

SPECIAL COMMITTEE TO SEE
WHAT ARRANGEMENTS CAN BE

ARCADE COMPANY ASKS COUN-CIL FOR PERMISSION TO BRIDGE OVER CANAL TO MAKE
ROAD FOR 270 FEET.

That an automobile fire truck with one or two firemen constantly on duty and ready to handle the truck has now become almost an absolute necessity in the city of Daytona, is acknowledged by the members of the Daytona city council, and the first definite step toward the purchase of such a truck was taken at the meeting of the council last night, when a special committee was appointed to see what arrangements can be made to buy and pay for an automobile fire truck. The committee is composed of Aldermen E. T. Conrad and H. E. Burdick, Street Commissioner Rix and City Clerk A. McF. Porter.

The action was started by a petition from the chief and officers of the Daytona volunteer fire company, in which it was stated that the size to which the city has grown and the territory which it covers makes it almost impossible for the volunteer company to handle fires in all parts of the city.

The petition asked that a special 3 mill tax be levied to raise funds for the purchase of an auto fire truck, but the city charter provides that all such levies must be made on property within the fire district and shall be assessed and collected at the same time and in the same manner as all other taxes. This would make it too late to get the special tax on the CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 14—The presentation of a note by the powers to bring Turkey and the Balkan allies together again in a renewal of peace negotiations has been delayed by Germany.

It was learned today that the German ambassador, acting on instructions from Berlin, is making representations to the powers favoring Turkey.

The porte today instructed the Turkish envoys sent to the peace conference to remain in London until they have received further instructions.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 14—What promises to be the stormiest session of the legislature South Carolina has seen in many years, opened here today.

Governor Cole Blease in his message advocates a special school tax levy, restriction of bank and express fees and popular election of judges. He attacked the cotton mill mergers and scored the state comptroller. Governor Blease urged the abolishment of the state hosiery mills, and a flat two-cent passenger rate, and advocated a law making it a misdemeanor for reporters to send out garbled accounts of public speeches.

BRITISH AMAZONS

Women Who Could Pull an Oar With the Best of Men.

WON FAME ALL OVER EUROPE.

Ann Glanville and Her Champions Not Only Beat Their Own Countrymen, but Went to Havre and Outrowed Half a Dozen Crack French Crews.

In the boat races that have from time immemorial been rowed on the Hamoaze, the estuary of the Tamar and the Tavy that forms part of the harbor of Plymouth, the women of Saltash have often distinguished themselves. In "Around and About Saltash" P. E. B. Porter writes of Ann Glanville, whose amazonian feats of oarsmanship made her famous all over Europe:

"Some sixty or seventy years ago the crew of Saltash women was often seen not only on the Hamoaze, but wherever aquatic sports were held. It was not often that Ann and the crew that she stroked were beaten in a match—never by other women.

"They competed for prizes at Hull, Liverpool, Portsmouth and Dartmouth, and it must not be supposed that a crew of men ever yielded the palm out of masculine courtesy, for, as a matter of fact, the men did not at all relish being beaten by a 'parcel of females.'

"In some of these contests Mrs. Harriet Screech, a daughter of Ann Glanville, who had fourteen children, rowed with her mother. As she was the youngest member of the crew she pulled bow oar, the least arduous post in the boat.

"Once this crew, rowing a match at Fleetwood in the presence of Queen Victoria, gave the men so sound a beating that her majesty asked to have Ann presented to her.

"However, the most famous event of Ann's life took place in 1850, when Captain Russell of H. M. S. Brunswick suggested to her that she and her crew should go to Havre to the regatta there and challenge the Frenchmen, a proposal to which she readily assented.

"When the Frenchmen heard of the challenge from les Anglaises de Saltash they shrugged their shoulders, for they scarcely regarded it as serious. And when the women appeared in their white frilled caps printed out with blue ribbons, in their short petticoats and white dresses, with blue neckerchiefs tied over the shoulders and crossed behind the back, they looked puzzled.

"The challenge of the Englishwomen created a stir not only in Havre, but for miles along the French coast and for many leagues inland too. And in England the greatest interest was aroused.

"When the day of the regatta came there was a vast concourse of people to witness the contest. Every quay, hilltop and boussetop from which a view of the course could be had was crowded. Every one was on tiptoe of expectation. Before the start the Saltash crew had a pull round to show themselves. Their steady stroke, the way in which they bent their backs to their work and the perfect ease and grace with which they pulled made the French open their eyes.

"Ann and her crew had not the best start possible, nor at first did they have the advantage. Five minutes after the start six boats were ahead of them. But they soon tested their opponents' nerve. Ann, who had the stroke oar, gave the word: "Bend your backs to it, maidens, and hurrah for old England!"

"One by one, with a cheer from old Ann, they passed the six boats. At last they drove their boat, with the British color flying gayly at the fore, into the lead. It was a long course and a hard pull, but they soundly thrashed the Frenchmen. Ann and her 'maidens' beat them by 100 yards. The members of this famous crew were Ann Glanville, Harriet Hosking, Jane House and Amelia Lee. A man acted as coxswain.

"Mrs. House was so elated at the victory that on reaching the committee boat she plunged into the water, dived under the vessel and came up with a dripping and drooping cap on the opposite side.

"Ann Glanville died in 1880, at the age of eighty-five, dignified, vigorous and handsome to the last. Her character was summed up by a neighbor in these words:

"'Her was honest to a farthing, clean as a smelt and kind hearted as a queen.'

Rose to the Occasion.

"Do you know, Miss Doodles," asks the earnest young man, "that if one were on Sirius the orbit of the earth would look just about the size of a finger ring?"

"I beg your pardon, Harold," she flutters. "I was musing for the moment and did not catch everything you said, but I heard you say something about 'serious' and a ring."—Chicago Post.

STATE
HAPPENINGS
 News from Fair Florida Briefly Told

The St. Petersburg public schools have been granted four more teachers to meet the present needs caused by the great influx of northern children in the schools of that city.

One of the saddest deaths Lakeland community has experienced for some time occurred when Mrs. J. Q.
 French passed away, having taken five grains of strychnine thinking it was quinine.

While out driving a few days ago,
 Miss Amelia Doole of Manatee, was thrown from her buggy and crushed
 so badly that she never regained consciousness. The horse became frightened at something, causing the fatal accident.

At probably the largest attended and most enthusiastic meeting in the history of the Jacksonville board of trade, George L. Drew and Herbert R. Race were re-elected president and vice president of that organization.

A $100,000 hotel is to be erected in Tavares. A committee has been appointed to get plans and specifications for the building. The Tavares Herald says: "With a hotel fronting Lake Dora, Tavares will be one of the most desirable places in the state for winter tourists."

The two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Moore of Arcadia, got hold of a box of matches a few days ago and ate the heads from a number of them. Poisoning resulted and the little one died. The child was a grandson of Marion Waldron, one of the pioneer settlers of that section.

The annual report of Superintendent
 Harry McCreary of the city waterworks at Tarpon for the year 1912
 shows a net surplus in earnings during that period of over $1,800. The city waterworks has been a paying proposition to the city during the past two years, but practically all the surplus earnings are being expended in extending the mains over the city, there being something over four miles at this time.

Jim Johnson, the negro who assailed a white woman near Citra a few days ago and was convicted a few days later, will pay the penalty with his life at Ocala tomorrow morning. A telegram was received from the governor's office stating that the warrant had been signed and the execution ordered for January 15. Johnson, after his conviction, admitted that he was the negro. During his trial which was disposed of in a quick and satisfactory manner to the citizens of the county generally, Johnson pleaded with the judge to wait a few days before passing sentence as he was not guilty. The evidence in the case was so strong and direct that the jury was out of the room
 only long enough to write its verdict.
 Unless the governor orders the execution within the fall walls it is probable that several thousand citizens will witness the end of Johnson's brutal career.

 Let us thank heaven that the hat

BABY WOOD DUCKS.

The Journey to the Water When They Leave Their Lofly Nests.

Somebody, Burroughs, I believe, said
 "the notion that the mother duck takes the young birds one by one in her beak and carries them to the creek is don't-less erroneous." I could not see how else it could be done, writes a contributor to the Youth's Companion, and I spent several valuable days of several different years in trying to find out how it was done.

The thing that puzzled me was how the mother wood duck (Aix sponsa) managed to get her numerous progeny down from their lofty cradle and upon the water without injuring them. I was not alone in my ignorance; some very eminent ornithologists have wondered about the matter as well.
 After a five mile pull one hot June day I let my boat lie in the shade of some lofty cottonwoods that grew on the lake shore, while I lay back and watched the play of shadows on the calm water.

A splash near by attracted my attention, and I looked round to see a mother wood duck just alighting. There was a little one by her side, but I did not see how it got there. In a moment the old duck rose, circled a few times to gain altitude, and made direct for a hole in a large dead tree a few rods away. The hole was at least sixty feet from the ground. The duck squeezed her body through the opening and disappeared. She came back in a few moments with a drizzling in her mouth. After resting for a moment she came sailing down and placed this baby beside the first. One after another she carried down the entire brood of eleven little yellow and black fluffy balls. They dapped their tiny wings and fluttered in the water as if that were not the first time they had ever been in swimming.

The mother duck returned once more to the tree to make sure that she had not overlooked one, came back, placed herself at the head of the procession, called softly to her babies and swam away, followed by the entire family in single file.

So Different Now.

"The children say so many bright things."
 "I suppose you did also when you were a youngster."
 "Oh, many of them."
 "How we do change, don't we?"

Animals Used to Test Drugs.
 Use is made of chemical manufacturers of various animals, such as chickens, dogs, cats and frogs, to test
 the efficacy of drugs.

Ergoline, for instance, is tested on chickens in an extremely simple way.
 Should it fail to turn a chicken's comb
 black it is at once known by the experimenter that the drug is worthless.
 Dogs are employed to test hashish.
 This is manufactured from female buds of hemp, the male buds having no particular medicinal value. Hashish administered to dogs induces a peculiar pathological condition, if the drug is correctly prepared, which is seen in no other animal save man himself.

Digitalis, the heart stimulant, is best tested on frogs. Injecting a drop of the drug into the stomach of the frog,
 the chemist, by means of the kymograph, or heart recording machine, studies the changes of the frog's heart action, thus obtaining accurate knowledge as to the effect of that particular kind of digitalis.—St. Louis Republic.

Why They Like Iodoform.
 "Train robbers, burglars, safe blowers, holdup men and, in fact, nearly all that class of professional criminals who resort to deeds of violence are greatly addicted to the use of iodoform," said a former California sheriff.
 "These fellows after committing some crime besprinkle their clothing liberally with the loud smelling fluid. They also pour it on their guns and knives and the tools of their trade. The reason is that they often make hurried flights in which they are not infrequently trailed with bloodhounds.
 There is nothing a bloodhound hates worse than the scent of iodoform, and it has been repeatedly the cause of the dog abandoning pursuit of a fugitive malefactor. Knowing this, the crooks are liberal buyers of an article that may tend to cause their freedom from capture."

GRAPE FRUIT MARKET IS IMPROVING

FREEZE IN CALIFORNIA WILL STRENGTHEN THE MARKET HERE

PEOPLE WHO HAVE BEEN IN THE HABIT OF EATING OR-ANGES ARE EXPECTED TO TURN TO GRAPE FRUIT.

MIAMI, Jan. 14—Market conditions on grape fruit have improved considerably since the Christmas season, the demand showing considerable activity and strength, although the price is but little improved. Fruit is being sold in Miami at from $1.75 to $1.90 f. o. b. for the best quality. Jacksonville brokers, it is said, are quoting fruit out of that station as low as $1.25, but the Miami men so far have not shown any tendency to do anything so disastrous as that.

The packing totals for this section for last week exceed any week since Christmas. All the packing houses have been running with more or less regularity, and a considerable amount of fruit has been packed.

The effect of the California freeze will have upon Florida oranges is believed by commission men to be considerable, it is thought that the grape fruit market will be strengthened quite a bit from a sympathetic standpoint, though not as a direct result of the California misfortune. California they hold, is not a grape fruit producing state.

"Why, California grape fruit is not even quoted in the big eastern markets," declared T. A. Winfield, a prominent Miami packer and grower, "Porto Rico, Cuba and Jamaica, however, are always quoted as competitors of Florida grape fruit. Moreover, from the best estimates I can get hold of I believe there is at least 60 per cent of the grape fruit crop of Florida still on the trees. The continued sluggish condition of the market through the early part of the season has led many growers to hold their fruit, and I understand that on the west coast there is an immense amount of fruit yet to be shipped."

Another thing which Mr. Winfield thinks should be borne in mind with regard to the California situation, and looked out for, is the probability that a large per cent of the oranges that have been injured by the freeze may be thrown upon the market at a great sacrifice, and consequently demoralize the market for good fruit. This he thinks cannot prevail if it happens at all because the fruit must move at once, and it will be off the market, probably in a few weeks.

"On the other hand," continued Mr. Winfield, "people when they can't get oranges so readily as they are accustomed to doing, will naturally go to eating grape fruit, and this, by way of increasing consumption, will increase the demand on the markets, and probably strengthen the price considerably. I do not look for any tremendous advance in the quotations however, and I think the growers who have determined to let their fruit hang on the trees for a long time will be doing themselves an injustice. From present reports it will be all the state can do to move all the fruit there is in the state this year from now on, without having a shortage occur now and a glut at the end of the season when warm weather will force every bit of fruit into boxes, demoralizing the market entirely."

Bourienne, Napoleon's School-mate

TWO boys—at the Brienne Military academy—poor, ill-dressed, sneered at by their luckier school-mates—were forced by loneliness into a sort of friendship. One of the lads was BOURIENNE the son of a Frenchman of lowly birth. He had no rightful place in the academy from which officers were to be graduated. For in those days, only men of wealth, rank or influence as a rule, rose to rank in the French army. That ill-placed boy was Louis Antoine Bourienne.

His classmate and friend was a splendid chap with a huge head. He was the butt of the school because of his hot temper, his haughtily borne poverty, his shabby clothes, his shrill, cracked voice and Corsican accent. This youngster was the son of an old, impoverished Corsican family. His name as spelled at that time was Napolione Bonaparte. He was one day to rule and bully his scornful fellow-students as "Napoleon I, Emperor of the French."

On leaving Brienne in 1785 the two comrades separated. It was years before they met again. Bonaparte worked his way up to a lieutenantancy in the army of King Louis XVI. Bourienne, failing to obtain an officer's commission, found a post in the lower branches of the diplomatic service. The friendship of boyhood had cooled when he and Bonaparte chanced to meet in Paris in the late days of the old French monarchy. Bonaparte, with his keen judgment of human nature, seems to have gauged his old schoolmate's character aright and to have found nothing in it to admire.

Yet when Bonaparte was "First Consul" and ruler of France in 1796 he sent for Bourienne and made him his private secretary. He afterward bestowed other offices on the poor young diplomat.

But Bourienne was not content with the legitimate earnings of his various positions. A man so near the head of the government could find many chances for graft. And Bourienne found them. He became "silent partner" in a dishonest army contract firm. He and his accomplices cleared up, it is said, more than $600,000 before their frauds were exposed.

Bourienne was banished by Napoleon to Hamburg. But, to soften the blow, his old school friend gave the secretary a fat official appointment there. Bourienne had acquired the taste for graft. Now that he was away from Napoleon's watchful eye he gratified his dishonest cravings without stint.

He wrongfully wrung huge sums from the Hamburg senate and from German noblemen. At last his thefts became so outrageous that complaint was made to Napoleon. The latter, who was now emperor of France, recalled Bourienne in disgrace, degraded him from his office and compelled him to refund $200,000 of the stolen money. Napoleon was never noted for gratitude or for kindness. The fact that he had done anything at all for the ex-school chum was unusual. Now he washed his hands of the man.

Bourienne, turned adrift and forced to give up part of his ill-gotten cash, became Napoleon's bitterest enemy. He did all in his power to injure his former benefactor, and toiled cunningly for the emperor's downfall.

In 1814 Napoleon was overthrown by the allied powers of Europe and was packed off to Elbe an exile. Bourienne was among the first to hail Louis XVIII. (the Bourbon king of the allies set on France's throne in Napoleon's place), and to clamor for office under him.

Then back from Elba came Napoleon. All France rose to greet him, and Louis XVIII. fled for his life. Napoleon offered pardon to nearly all his political foes, but he pointedly refused to forgive Bourienne. Trembling at his own danger, Bourienne rushed for safety to the still fleeing Louis XVIII. This act of "devotion" touched the heart of the fugitive king. He made Bourienne minister of state after Napoleon's second and final downfall. The turncoat fared well for some years. But, like most grafters, Bourienne at last lost every penny of his tainted wealth. He was forced to flee from France to escape his creditors.

His mind gave way and, in 1834, he died in an insane asylum.

Urgent Need of Shipping World.

No discovery or invention relating to maritime matters would be of as great benefit to the shipping world as a contrivance which would give timely warning of the proximity of icebergs. Until this peril has been eliminated, the passage of the north Atlantic will be attended by an element of danger which must compel the greatest precaution on the part of seafarers and occasionally bring about a disaster in spite of the utmost vigilance of shipmasters and men.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE TO SEE WHAT ARRANGEMENTS CAN BE MADE TO BUY THE NEW TRUCK

books for this year and would delay the matter for another year. In order to have action taken on the matter within a shorter time the special committee was appointed to see if arrangements can be made to purchase the fire truck in the near future and arrange to pay for it, or at least part of it, later.

The automobile fire truck would give protection to all parts of the city and bring every piece of property within the fire protection limits. Would Cover Canal

A petition was presented from the Arcade company asking permission to bridge over the north canal from Beach street to the back portion of their property, a distance of 270 feet, and asking the city to pay half of the expense. The object, as stated in the petition, was that the company might build a structure in the rear of the Arcade building to house the hose cart of the Arcade volunteer fire department. At the present time this is the only place the company can find to erect a structure to house the apparatus of the volunteer fire company, and a road bridge on the canal will furnish the only means of getting to and away from the fire house.

Mr. Kreitzberg and Mr. Lynch appeared before the council to argue that the canal in its present open condition is an eyesore to the city and a detriment to property in that vicinity, and ask that the request to cover the canal with a roadway be granted. Incidentally, it was stated, one of the objects in asking for the road over the canal was to give an opening to the back entrance of the building which the express company proposes to use as a down town office.

Expression of sentiment among the aldermen was unfavorable to granting the petition, but the matter was referred to the special committee appointed to investigate the proposition of buying a new fire truck. The expression of one alderman was that if the canal is to be closed over it should be done by the city in the erection of a slightly building and not with a road, as the property is too valuable to be turned over to a private road. Other aldermen expressed themselves as not favoring the covering the canal in any way.

Sympathize With the Child.

Never laugh at your little one's confidences. Sympathize with his plans, no matter how wild they may seem. If you think his imagination is carrying him too far, administer a slight check by asking if such and such a plan seems the best thing to do.

It is to a gentle mother of this kind that the son will carry his hopes and fears when he is a man full grown.

Few mothers consider the real importance of having their children's perfect confidence when they are young. It means to them that they can feel perfect trust in their sons and daughters when they are grown. It means that the mother need not worry about where Tom is if he is absent from the home for a few hours, because he will tell her all about it tomorrow.

The fact that a boy knows that his mother expects his confidence and that she places her trust in him will be his surest incentive toward an upright, honorable manhood.

The Word "Strike."

The earliest use of the word "strike" in the sense of stopping work occurs in the London Chronicle or September, 1765, in connection with a coal strike. This publication reports a great suspension of labor in the Northumberland coalfields, and the colliers are stated to have "struck out" for a higher bounty before entering into their usual yearly "bond." The time-honored illustration of profitless labor, "carrying coals to Newcastle," appears to have received its first slap in the face during this strike. The Chronicle reports that "several pokes of coal were brought from Durham to Newcastle by one of the common carriers, and sold on the sandhill for 9d a poke, by which he cleared 6d a poke."

Time Wasted.

"I will detain you only a moment, Mr. Hepperly. Are you carrying all the life insurance you want?"
"Yes, and more than I can afford; but I'm glad you dropped in. I have just taken the agency for a subscription book entitled 'The Voters' Manual.' It contains the platforms of all the existing political parties, brief biographies of all the prominent political leaders, statistics relating to the internal revenue, congressional debates on the tariff question—together with—what's your hurry?"

Johnson is under $30,000 bonds not to leave the jurisdiction of the Chicago courts. He was on a train bound for Canada and the negro said he was on his way to Canada to arrange for a fight, after which he intended to return to Chicago.

The very best in Fish, Oysters, Game and Chops at Hattie's.

The remains of Arthur Collin were interred in Pinewood cemetery, Daytona Beach, at 4 o'clock this afternoon, word having been received this morning from the young man's mother, Mrs. Eliza Collin. As stated in yesterday's issue of the Daily News, Mr. Collin died Sunday evening and Mrs. Collin was wired of his decease. The delay in receiving a reply was due to the fact that Mrs. Collin was at Euclid, instead of Noble, Ohio. She requested that the body be buried here.

Keep Memento of Great Artist.

On the facade of the Palazzo Vecchio at Florence, to the right of the central entrance, the profile of a man's head is traced on the marble, the authorship of which is ascribed to Michael Angelo. The story runs that he and a friend made a bet as to which of them would draw a head best with their backs to the wall, a bet easily won by Michael Angelo, for he traced a perfect profile, whereas the other produced only a wavering, imperfect outline. The story further relates that the tool used was a nail! Both drawings are carefully preserved.

NEGRO MESSENGER TELLS OF PURLOINING LETTER FILES

TELLS CLAPP COMMITTEE HOW HE SECURED EPISTLES FROM THE PRIVATE OFFICE OF JOHN ARCHBOLD.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—William Winfield, a negro messenger formerly employed in the office of the Standard Oil company, was before the Clapp committee investigating campaign funds today, and told the story of purloining letters from the files in the office of John D. Archbold.

He stated that in 1904 he disposed of a copy of a telegram to Charles Stumph, a clerk, and Frank Morrell, an office boy employed in Archbold's office. He took the letter copy book from the files and after the letters had been photographed he returned the book to the files. Some letters were also taken.

He said his share was one-third, or about $2,500. Stumph received one-third and Stumph's brother-in-law one-third. They received $1,000 for the first telegram, and this amount was divided between himself, Stumph and Morrell.

HOW ARAB PRIZES HIS MARE

"Foundation of Wealth is a Mare; Bring Forth a Mare," is One of Their Sayings.

The Arab's regard for his mare is often expressed in sayings that are short and very much to the point, as for instance: "The foundation of wealth is a mare; bring forth a mare." "The greatest blessings are a wise wife and a fruitful mare."

As the Arabs themselves are divided into tribes and sub-tribes, the same system is adopted in regard to the strain of their horses' breed. In fact, the breeding is carried on in the same manner as laid down in the Koran for the Mohammedan marriages. This is one of the chief factors giving rise to the high quality of the pure bred Arab horse.

"Thoroughbred mares are never sold under any conditions, and instances have been known," says Pierre Ponafidine in "Life in the Moslem East," "when five and six and ten thousand pounds have been refused; for often such mares that are too old for riding are still kept for breeding purposes."

In olden times stealing a mare was punishable by death. Sheikhs own one or more pure bred mares, according to their position and means, but it is often the case that among the less well to do people a mare is owned by several, the shares being clearly defined and division of colts made according to detailed and often complicated laws. Sometimes one family owns "one leg," while a richer man claims "two legs," etc.

The system of owning a mare in shares is found among certain Arabs in Turkish Arabia and sometimes in the city of Bagdad itself, if any one is fortunate enough to get hold of a half-bred mare.—Tit-Bits.

HOW TERM "MUG" ORIGINATED

In the Days of Old Faces of Men Were Fitted Upon the Ale Jugs.

When you call for a draught of ale in a chop house it is served quite as often as not in a toby, a jug modeled roughly after the form of a little old man in a cocked hat. This chop house toby of today was quite probably "made in Germany," but his ancestors came from England.

Most of them belong to Staffordshire and there is not a solemn one among the lot. In the latter part of the eighteenth century and the early years of the nineteenth famous men's faces were fitted to pitchers much as nowadays the likenesses of our national characters are cast in plaster of paris and sold in the shops.

So it is that we find Wellington and Drake, General Howe and Lord Nelson, hollowed into ale mugs for the greater glory of their deeds. It has even been asserted that here originated the unhandy term "mug" as the colloquial designation of the face.

From the collector's viewpoint there are two classes of toby, the portrait toby and the jug, which is merely a comic. The portraits may be of historic worthies or they may simulate ideal characters such as John Bull or mythical characters such as Punch or characters from fiction such as Falstaff.—Country Life in America.

LATEST INVENTION IN THE WAY OF WATER CRAFT

A hydrocycle for two was recently given a tryout at Milan with great success by its builders, the Moretti brothers. The novelty of the hydrocycle, which is foot propelled, lies in the fact that instead of its propellers being placed in the water at the stern of the machine, as is usual in water craft, this water-skimming cycle has its propellers placed in the rear of the iron frame, far removed from the water. Considerable speed can be made on this hydrocycle and it is predicted that within a short time it will be seen on all inland waters of Europe and America.

UTILIZING COLD MUTTON.

COLD mutton—the scraps which are scarcely nice looking enough to appear on the table as cold sliced meat—may be made the basis for a number of delicious dishes. The lean mutton is required for these, the fat and gristle being discarded.

Handsomely Arranged.

Minced Mutton With Jelly.—Take some cold mutton and chop it with a small quantity of red pickled cabbage or beets. Season this with salt, pepper, oil and vinegar. Chop hard boiled white of egg, add it to the mince and moisten with a small quantity of liquid aspic jelly. Fill small wet molds with the mixture. When firm turn out on a dish. Garnish the dish with olives, hard boiled eggs and aspic jelly.

Diced Mutton.—Take some cold mutton and cut into cubes; also cut into cubes the same weight of potatoes as of meat. Season the potatoes and toss them in butter. Then put half the vegetables into a saucepan with the meat and cover the whole with a few tablespoonfuls of tomato sauce and meat gravy. Heat without allowing to boil. Distribute the remainder of the potatoes, which should be crisply fried, over the hash and sprinkle with a pinch of freshly chopped parsley.

With a Cereal and Vegetables.

Hashed Mutton and Rice.—Take one pound of cooked mutton, half a large onion, two ounces of butter, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, the peel of half a grated lemon, three-quarters of a pint of stock or water, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, one teaspoonful of sugar, one dessertspoonful of meat essence, three-quarters of a teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of pepper, three tablespoonfuls of tomato ketchup. Put the butter into a saucepan. When hot put onion in, cut up, and cook till light brown. Add the mutton, free from skin and cut into dice. Then add other ingredients, cover the pan and cook all for an hour. Thicken with a dessertspoonful of flour and pour on to a hot dish. Have ready a wall of rice on the dish.

A Simple Hash.

Mutton Hash.—Take the cold meat left after you have had a cold shoulder or leg of mutton, six whole peppers, six whole allspice, savory herbs, half a head of celery, one onion, two ounces of butter, flour. Cut the meat in nice even slices from the bones, trimming off all superfluous fat and gristle. Chop the bones and fragments of the joint, put them into a stewpan with the pepper, spice, herbs and celery, cover with water and simmer for one hour. Slice and fry the onion to a nice pale brown color, dredge in a little flour to make it thick and add this to the bones, etc. Stew for a quarter of an hour, strain the gravy, let it cool and skim off fat.

IS LAZIEST MAN ON EARTH

Sea-Faring Man Discovers Him in Person of Chief of the Solomon Islands.

In all probability the laziest man on earth has been discovered by sea-faring men who had occasion to stop at the Solomon Islands of the East Indies not long ago. Those islands are inhabited by tribes of black men known to the sailors as Kanakas.

The ruler over the islands of Choise and Caristoval is one of these Kanakas, known as Chief Sonoa. The Kanakas are almost invariably short and very heavily built, but Chief Sonoa is the shortest and fattest one of the bunch, weighing in the neighborhood of 365 pounds. He is not only the blackest, fattest and laziest, but he has more wives than any other chief in that neighborhood.

One of the sailors who visited these islands said that "his majesty would lie in the sands of the beach while his favorite wife would sit beside him and smoke. She would draw a mouth full of the smoke into her lungs. The chief would open his mouth, the favorite would blow the smoke into it and he would inhale it into his lungs, after which he would let it pass out his nose. Time after time would the wife chosen for this job blow the smoke into her chief's mouth, and time after time he would take it into his lungs to let it pass out of his nose. The tobacco used was the strongest that could be had, and with it was rolled some kind of leaf that would bring on sleep. A truly luxurious being is this dusky king."

Medical Dinner

Sallie, a darky cook down in Virginia, has been taught by her mistress to cook chickens en casserole—an accomplishment in which she takes great pride. It is always done on occasions of state, and Sallie hunts up company to show her prowess. Sunday morning recently she came in gleefully with the remark: "Yonder come Mr. Clifford up de road to see Miss Judith. Hadn't I better cook the chicken in castor oil?"

Progressive Matrimony.

"Has the baroness already another husband?"

"Oh, no; she's already without one again."—Fliegende Blätter.

Napoleon's Concentration.

The leading military principles of Napoleon were to seize the initiative by concentrating one's forces from marching into fighting order as quickly as possible and, having massed the troops as compactly as effective action will permit, to attack swiftly. This attack must be upon a portion only of the enemy's army, and the weight of one's whole force must be crowded in, so that at the point of action a decided superiority is attained. This theory of action he often explained to his generals. Moreau, in conversation with Napoleon in 1799, remarked that it was always the greater numbers that won, to which Napoleon replied: "You are right. When, with inferior forces, I had a large army before me I concentrated mine rapidly and fell like lightning upon one of the enemy's wings and routed it. Then I took advantage of the confusion which this maneuver never failed to produce in the opposing army to attack it on another point, but always with my whole force. Thus I beat it in detail, and the victory which was the result was always, as you see, the triumph of the larger over the lesser."—Edward D. Jones in Engineering Magazine.

Plea For Trick Animals.

No dog or horse or cat ever finds it according to its nature to jump through flaming hoops, roll barrels, walk a tight rope or do scores of other things it is forced to do by trainers. The lump of sugar or the bit of meat given deceives no one who knows anything about animals. Refusal to applaud, persuading children not to attend these exhibitions because of the cruelty that is behind them, influencing one's friends against the whole scheme of making money through trick animals—these are some of the ways in which we may help.—Our Dumb Animals.

Mexico's Four Nosed Snake.

The most deadly reptile in Mexico is the four nosed snake. It usually measures from four to six feet in length and from two to four inches in diameter, with sixteen great fangs, eight above and eight below. It has the ferocity of a bulldog and the venom of an Egyptian asp.

INTERESTING RIDES AND DRIVES POINTS WORTH VISITING

OCEAN BEACH—excellent motoring north for 10 miles and south 10 miles to Mosquito Inlet and the Government lighthouse at Ponce Park. The beach is the most magnificent in the world.

BEED, KNOX & BEED ORANGE GROVE—18 miles, via Ormond, is one of the largest groves in Volusia county and is well worth seeing; can be reached by motor over fairly good road; can also be reached by boat.

NUMBER NINE ORANGE GROVE—large grove, passed on the way to the Beed, Knox & Beed grove, is 12 miles from Daytona.

NEW SMYRNA—16 miles from Daytona, over an excellent hard surface road; this drive is said to be the prettiest in the state. At New Smyrna are the ruins of an ancient fort and other historical spots, left by the colony of Andrew Turnbull.

OLD SPANISH MISSION—2 miles west of New Smyrna, reached by motor over good road. This mission is without authentic history, but by many it is contended that this is the church built by Columbus on his second voyage to America. The altar is still extant, but at a later date the building was used as a sugar mill.

SPANISH SUGAR MILL—2 miles west of Port Orange and about 8 miles from Daytona; the machinery is still in a good state of preservation, although the mill is presumed to have been built and operated by the early Spanish settlers.

GOVERNMENT LIGHTHOUSE—at Ponce Park, 12 miles from Daytona, is reached by boat or by motor on the ocean beach.

MAMMOTH TREE—4 miles from Daytona; an abnormally large tree; reached by motor over hard-surfaced road.

DELAND—25 miles from Daytona, the county seat of Volusia county and seat of John B. Stetson university; a very picturesque city; reached by motor over hard-surfaced road.

TOMOKA RIVER—The scenic stream of Florida; reached by excursion boats which leave Daytona daily and run to the navigable head of the stream, 26 miles from the city. Generally a number of alligators may be seen in their native haunts. This is a trip no tourist should miss.

DELEON SPRINGS, 28 miles from Daytona; mammoth spring that throws out thousands of gallons of water a minute; a delightful bathing pool, and picturesque scenery. Spring is situated in an old plantation. Reached by motor over good road; a nice trip for a picnic party.

OAK HILL—hamlet, 10 miles south of New Smyrna; several orange groves in the locality; reached by motor over hard-surfaced road.

ORMOND—six miles from Daytona; here is located the Ormond hotel and a pretty town; nearby are the ruins of Spanish sugar mills.

TURTLE MOUND—26 miles south of Daytona; reached by boat; a mammoth mound of oyster shells supposed to have been left by a prehistoric race of people. Pottery and other antiquities have been discovered in excavating the shell.

PORT ORANGE—an attractive town 6 miles south of Daytona, can be reached by motor over hard-surfaced road; or the trip one way may be made by the road and crossing the Halifax river on the Port Orange bridge, the return can be made on the ocean beach.

CLARENDON GOLF LINKS—2 miles from Daytona and immediately north of the Hotel Clarendon at Seabreeze; the links are now in good condition. The Hotel Clarendon bears the distinction of being the only fireproof winter tourist hotel in the world.

GENERALLY, you may motor in any direction from Daytona and find places and objects of interest which your driver can explain to you; there are many by-roads through the sylvan vegetation that a visitor will greatly enjoy.

a weather point of view; it's just the sort of mess to make one kick and rue because he didn't save his coin and hie for decent spots, instead of staying here where life is full of blots. Why, Friday afternoon alone was enough to give one a pain, for in a few short hours we had hail, wind, sunshine and rain. A heterogeneous bunch, kaleidoscopic, quite,
and variety sufficient to bring on lots of fright. Water fell in torrents and heap much was the hail, while fillings in teeth were blown out by the fierceness to the gale. Saturreally do, but Monday and Tuesday were days that made one long for a body and as a recognition of the rights of the public to know the facts concerning municipally owned enterprises, the following report, showing the financial status of the city water works at the beginning of the plant during the five months of the year 1912 following the closing of the books and the auditing thereof by Auditor J. B. Crocker, August 1st, and presenting also a brief statement of other facts of assumed interest to all concerned, is respectfully submitted.

Profit balance . . . 279.83

The above statement is largely self explanatory. There are, however, a few points on which questions might arise.In the first place, in determining the value of the fixed assets, the customary deductions for depreciations have been made from the time the system was installed. The writer has not, however, assumed the authority of an appraiser and has made no allowances for appreciation in the value of the water works property which is known to have increased in value since bought in 1909 at the then prevailing price.It will be further noted that, under liabilities, the water works has assumed responsibility for the payment of the meter deposits and the interest on bonds. This is obviously correct accounting, and still the deposits will never be paid in entirety and are simply a rational substitute for "advance payment" charge not infrequently made on water bills as an equivalent guarantee of payment of bills. Nor are the semi-annual payments of interest on bonds made from the water works fund. This interest is, however, an expense, or more properly, a loss to the enterprise and is therefore regularly recorded in the above statement. As is well known, the water works is rendering the public a service in protection from fire which is worth more than the city is thus paying out in interest for the water works. The water works is therefore credited with having earned this revenue, and under "City Service" will be found the actual cost to the city of the several kinds of service rendered there, viz.: fire protection, street sprinkling, sewer flushing, and water for the public school and city hall buildings, a reasonable amount having been allowed for the rental of the stable and jail sites.Summarizing the above: Assuming that the service to the city, viz.: fire protection, street sprinkling, sewer flushing, and public school and city hall service for the last five months, have been worth $1021.46, then the water works has paid 5 per cent dividends and earned a surplus of the profit balance of $279.83.

Consumers.

There are at the date of this writing, three hundred and forty-two service connections with the mains. Several of these connections supply two or more patrons, the total patronage now being three hundred and sixty-three. Before the water works was constructed there were those who firmly believed that, if built, it would be mainly useful as a protection from fire losses. This protection was estimated to be worth about $5000.00 per annum. This is no doubt a just estimate of the worth of this protection. The city water works has, however, long since proven that this is not its only use, for, it is seen from the above more than one-half of the houses within the limits of the distributing system are already enjoying the advantages of a supply of water furnished under a pressure of over fifty pounds to the square inch.The public is rapidly recognizing the adaptability of the city water for every use, and the problem soon to confront us, indeed, already doing so, is not how to secure the patronage of those within the limits of the present system, but how to supply those without the system who will gladly pay more than the regular price for the advantages of having city water.

Respectfully submitted, GEO. A. MAIN.

Mrs. J. G. Brown of South Ridgewood avenue, is in receipt of a letter from her mother, Mrs. M. E. Rodgers of Grove City, Pa., who is spending the winter with other children at Moravia, California, in the heart of the citrus belt. Mrs. Rodgers spent last winter here with Mr. and Mrs. Brown.

Dr. F. J. Walter and party, consisting of his wife and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Broadbent, and the doctor's brother, H. E. Walter, and family, had an unpleasant experience on the Ormond bridge, while out driving Sunday afternoon. They were crossing the bridge from the peninsula to the mainland and met one of the F. E. C. railway trains on the way to the Ormond hotel. The turnout is very narrow and it took both Dr. Walter and his brother at the heads of the horses to hold them down and keep them from plunging and backing onto the track. The train appears to have been a little ahead of time and the bridge tender, unaware of its approach, let Dr. Walter pass the toll house and enter on the narrow part of the bridge. It would seem that flagmen should be stationed at the ends of the bridge or some signal means used to warn drivers of vehicles when trains were entering upon the bridge.

WANTED—$4,500 on first mortgage, 3 to 5 years time. Gilt edge property in Seabreeze given as security. Address H. H. Lock box 174. 33-4t

"BABY MINE."

The sale of seats for the world's funniest play, "Baby Mine," which is announced for tonight, has been large. "Baby Mine" comes with a record of eight weeks at the Majestic theatre, Boston, six months at the Princess theatre, Chicago, and one solid year at Daly's theatre, New York. It has reached its second year in London at the Criterion theater. There can be no question about the success of this hilarious comedy. The impetus of the play never rests; it is said to begin with spirit, and end with spirit; each act has a new move of fun, and the complications are intensely droll, while the dialogue is said to be thoroughly to the point, and the acting from first to last, excellent.

CATTLEMEN PROTEST AGAINST LOWERING TARIFF ON MEAT

PRESIDENT OF AMERICAN LIVE

STOCK ASSOCIATION SAYS REDUCTION WOULD WORK

HAVOC AMONG STOCK RAISERS

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 14—Cattlemen from all parts of the United States met here today to protest against the proposed attempt of certain members of the 63rd congress to put meat on the free list.

Most of these live stock agents were members of the American Live Stock association and had come to Phoenix to attend the convention of that organization which opened here today. Besides these men, however, there were farmers from the western states and cattlemen who were not members of the association.

The keynote of the cattlemen's protest was sounded by H. A. Jastro of Bakersfield, Cal., president of the association, at the opening of the convention. Mr. Jastro said that "it will require the most diligent and careful work by the live stock and agricultural classes to prevent discrimination by those who wish to reduce the tariff on meats and agricultural machinery." The speaker further stated that an attempt to put meat on the free list would work irreparable havoc to the cattle raising industry.
